Catholic Schools Week 2023: Cardinal Pride

As all of you know, January 29th. marked the beginning of Catholic Schools Week, our annual celebration of Catholic Education. This was the perfect time for us to celebrate the wonderful work and tremendous positive social impact St. John the Baptist has made in our Plattsmouth community.

Our school observed the week with special Masses, assemblies, and other activities for students, parents, alumni and families to celebrate the great work and good news of our wonderful school.

During the week, we honored our administration, teachers and staff, parishioners as well as benefactors and volunteers who show their stewardship in time and talent invested in our students. A very special thank you to our parents who have entrusted their children to our care and partner with us in this wonderful world of Catholic Education. A heartfelt and sincere appreciation is offered to these same parents who have taken the necessary steps to ensure their children are provided with sound faith formation and excellence in education.

Thanks to all of those who pray for the success of the mission of our Church, and our alumni who enrich their communities with the fruits of their Catholic School years. We honor our students; who are the heart of Catholic education.

While times and circumstances bring each era’s particular set of challenges, Catholic education has exactly the same resources as the founders of our Catholic Schools did...God has love; divine grace; the wisdom of the Church; and the help of the Holy Spirit. With these, Catholic Schools live together in faith, strive for excellence, and offer services to those who are in need as contributors of our world.

It has been a beautiful week of celebration. Special thanks to all of you for your support and participation.

God Bless You,

Dr. Nina M. Beck
